Date : Jun 6, 2018

Singapore 05/06/2018- Ampliz, the self serve database management and procurement portal has added one more feather to its cap. It has enabled intent data that shows prescribed medicine attached to a specific doctor.

The Ampliz healthcare advantage

With over 1.2 million double verified healthcare contacts available for direct download, Ampliz is the worlds only web based platform that provides this feature. Adding value to the user has always been the driving force behind innovations at Ampliz. To this end, the intent data search filter for specific medicine prescribed has been added to improve your search results. You can also search based on location and NPI number. This feature has been added after a survey among users found that they wanted to know what types of medication is prescribed by doctors allowing for competitive analysis and better search results. This intent data is responsible for 4.5 trillion dollars in spending globally.

One of the most important features of this self serve platform is its ability to give you results that are fine tuned and in line with the requests keyed in. This shortens your search cycle and gives you highly refined results that make the process of data acquisition easier and faster. The AI based search engine learns and understands each and every time you login and search so that it is able to give you better results, the more you use it.
