On-premise deployment refers to installing the software on the person's or on the organization's computer. On the other hand, cloud deployment refers to installing software on servers, driven by the growing adoption of advanced cloud technology among organizations. The low cost of deployment and easy implementation are the major factors behind the growing preference of cloud based deployment over on-premise deployment.

Every application sector namely corporate, education, government, agencies & associations prefers to store their data on cloud instead of saving it on-premise for better security.
